SCHOOLS CLOSE TO MOTHER EARTH

What Corn and Potato Clubs Do For the Boys.

GROWTH OF THE MOVEMENT.

Jefferson County Leads With Its Magnificent Gardening Land—How William Frey Grew Eighty-eight Bushels of Potatoes on One-fourth of an Acre.

Gradually the thinking school people are beginning to see and understand that if the parents will not go to the school the school must go to the home and make itself felt. Nothing has helped more in this movement than the boys' corn and potato clubs. The tremendous growth of the movement is due largely to a rational use of the children's enthusiasm and desire TO DO SOMETHING THEMSELVES. PLEASURE IN ACHIEVEMENT COMES FROM DOING IT YOURSELF, and pleasure in achievement is the largest factor in human life.

William and Walter Frey live about eight miles from Louisville in a splendid farming and gardening section of Jefferson county. When your reporter visited them on Saturday, 24 of November, he found them busy storing "second crop" potatoes for the winter market.

William Frey, the older brother, grew one-fourth of an acre of potatoes this season. He harvested eighty-eight bushels of splendid tubers on the plot. When he was asked about the crop and its cultivation, he said:

"Yes, that yield was some better than most of the neighbors around here. You see, eighty-eight bushels on my little piece is the same as 117 barrels to the acre. Of course I did some things the neighbors didn't do, because I did all of my work from the direct to the government sent me. Every body plows manure under when they break the ground in the spring, but I used my two big wagon loads of rotted manure for a top dressing after my potatoes were in the ground.

"The folks that came over here said my potatoes were darker green than any of the others in the neighborhood. We all saw that the vines were mighty heavy and fine. I went over the patch three times with a fourteen tooth cultivator, and I was careful not to let it cut deeper than two inches. After that I gave it two workins with a five tooth cultivator.

"Yes, my potatoes will get the first prize this year in this county. It'll make the quarter of an acre pay mighty well, because it's $50 in gold."

Walter Frey, the younger brother has an acre of corn in the contest, but it had not been husked when your correspondent visited the farm early in November. The ground showed that careful work had been done during the summer, and the eighteen huge shocks that stood upon the acre gave promise of a large yield.

"I planted the Boone County White that the state furnished us boys," he said in answer to my question, "but I only got about half a stand of corn, so I had to use some of our own Boone County for replanting the acre. Of course a bad stand is a mighty poor start in a corn contest. Next time I am going to test the seed so as to be sure about my stand.

"Yes, I used a lot of manure on that acre. Before I plowed it this spring I scattered four big loads of manure so I could turn it under.

"I was going to do more plowing in cultivation than anybody around here this year, but a big windstorm tangled it so I had to quit early. I did cultivate it four times and didn't stir the ground more than two inches deep. The directions for corn makes that a mighty strong point."

FAIR THAT MADE A TOWN WAKE UP

Bowling Green's School Gathering Beat the Circus.

IT ROUSED CIVIC PRIDE.

And Made Citizens Realize That Kentucky Was Forging Forward to Take Her Place With Other States of the Union.

A circus can bring a crowd into a town that will tax the livery stables and side streets, but a school fair and parade can do the same. On Oct. 24 Bowling Green was crowded, crowded as if a show was in town, but there was a difference. It was a crowd of eager, expectant people, with eyes looking far beyond the mere parade; it was a crowd that marks the awakening of a state that had dozed comfortably for years; it was a crowd that unconsciously was making history. It was not a yelling, surging crowd, but one that stood quietly as the parade passed and made remarks that were pregnant with thought. One grizzled old farmer looked far down the line of sturdy marching children, smiled and remarked to his neighbor: "This is the biggest day Bowling Green ever had. It's bigger than speeches, elections and everything else."

Just think of practically every school child in the county in line, parading the principal streets of the town. Think of the school pride that came to them while preparing their unique costumes and banners to compete for the prize offered. There were whole schools in blue and white, black and scarlet, brown and red and pure white. One group had each and every boy, big and little, in a brand new pair of blue overalls. Even the subdistrict trustee had caught the contagion of enthusiasm and marched in his new blue overalls.

Back to the top of the hill on which the buildings of the Western Normal rest went the line of march. Behind them went the throng of parents and friends to have a look at the display of the Boys' Corn club of Warren county and the exhibits of the schools. In one of the large rooms at the school booths were arranged that each district school might have a distinct space for its handiwork. A walk among these booths showed beaten blanchets, cakes, bread, preserves, jellies, garden vegetables, doll furniture, sewing of all kinds, drawings, paintings, collections of leaves and various woods.

The corn show was splendid, but it must be taken up as a separate story. In fact, the impression made on your reporter during the whole day he spent at Bowling Green was that it was all too big, too fine, too impressive to handle properly. It is easy to feel the throbs of enthusiasm in a crowd that is surcharged with it, but it is a far different matter to put it into cold print.

Such events make us know Kentucky has roused herself from her nap and is stretching herself and rubbing her eyes. It is only necessary as she rubs the drowsiness from her eyes to make her see the problems that confront her children clearly, then to make her move forward steadily toward the place that should be hers among the sister states of the Union.
